Customer Service - Our Commitment to You

Hennis Enterprises is a family owned business that has always been dedicated to our core values such as:

- Offer competitive prices
- Provide top-notch customer service
- Always deliver the best product possible
- Value our employees
- Respect our community and the environment
- Appreciate our customers and value their needs

Our commitment to excellence is why we've been respected at the top of our field for over 33 years. And our hands-on approach means we work with you from the conception of your project, through development, and until the very end - giving you the professional care and dedicated service that you deserve.

Along with our factory in Ventura, California, we have a state-of-the-art facility in Tecate, Mexico, five minutes from the U.S. border. This provides for the best in production capacity, quality control, and prompt delivery. Many of our competitors manufacture overseas creating slow turn around times and huge delays in delivery. With localized production we can actually take your custom needs, make a design, start production, and begin shipment in a matter of weeks.

Why Polyurethane?

- ★ Polyurethane may be used for interior and exterior applications
- ★ Polyurethane is cost effective
- ★ Polyurethane is lightweight and easy to install
- ★ Polyurethane is much cheaper to ship than traditional materials
- ★ Polyurethane is termite resistant
- ★ Polyurethane will not split, crack or check like real wood
- ★ Polyurethane will not promote mold growth as it does not retain moisture
- ★ Polyurethane requires very little maintenance
- ★ Polyurethane will provide many years of lasting beauty

The Beauty of Polyurethane

The pictures above show some of the approximately 100 different items Hennis Enterprises manufactured for the Venetian Hotel in Las Vegas. We use a high-density polyurethane molding process that provides us with an exact duplication of the original item. So whether the texture is stone, brick, terra cotta, smooth, or one of our several wood grain textures, you're sure to get a product that is in many ways better than the real thing.

Although the look of a polyurethane product is genuine, its weight is considerably lighter than most materials such as wood, stone, concrete, fiberglass, GFRG, and other composites.

This allows you to include polyurethane detail products without re-engineering the support structure. In addition, because our products are so lightweight, shipping, handling, finishing, and installation are simplified.

The bottom line is that our polyurethane products give you the best overall value. We give you the visual appeal you are looking for, the cost-efficiency everyone wants, and the versatility no other product can offer. So whether you are looking to enhance the appearance of a home or business, we offer a seemingly unlimited supply of solutions.

Only a few years old, this vinyl shutter is already showing the signs of an inferior product. Even if the wood simulation looks adequate when new, it doesn't have near the same weather resistance and overall durability as a polyurethane product.

Don't let your projects end up looking like this!

Here is a common example of a wood louvered shutter that has become the victim of its own environment. Our polyurethane shutters are molded as one piece so there is no chance of them coming apart or splintering.

This is a wood corbel that has dried out and split. Our products are dimensionally stable and weather resistant, providing years of beauty.
